

ABSTRACT

In general, a computing device is configured with a display panel integrated with a plurality of antennas. These antennas may enable service to multiple wireless communication systems such as, for example, a wireless local area network (WLAN), a global positioning system (GPS), a high performance radio local area network (HiperLAN/x) and/or a Bluetooth based network.

TOP SECRET//SI//REL TO USA, FVEY